Terms of party membership.

- By applying to become a member of PIOC you agree to accept and conform to the constitution, programme, principles and policy of the Party. If applicable, be a member of a trade union, hold your membership at the address where you reside and if eligible be registered as an elector at that address.
- You also confirm that you are not a member of any other registered political party; and you are not a member of any organisation incompatible with membership of PIOC. Should you already be a member of another political group/party and are not willing to dissolve the pre-existing membership, then your vote within PIOC will be invalid.
- Your membership rights commence from the date your membership is recorded on the membership list.
- Once applied to become a member, you will have a 30-day probation period. Typically, after the 30-day probation, you will be allowed to participate in any membership events and receive any relevant membership perks. However, your membership could be rejected if elected observers vote on such an outcome, this could be due to political concerns or membership eligibility circumstances. A reason for membership prohibition can be provided to you. You could be advised in writing and depending on the reason you could have a right of appeal. Full membership rules and procedures are available in the PIOC code of conduct.
- By supplying personal data to register as a member you agree that PIOC, elected representatives of PIOC, and any candidates in internal PIOC elections in which you are entitled to participate may contact you using any of the data supplied.
- By entering your email address and/or phone number you agree to receive communications from us, from which you can opt-out using the unsubscribe link in each email we send. Text messages can be opted out at any time using the appropriate stop message.
- We will not share your details with anyone outside the Party.
- Data protection Act. The information you provide on this form will only be used by us; we will not pass on details to any other organisation.
